COMPENSATION AND BENEFITS

SUBJECT

CHANGES IN LONGSTANDING TAX RETURN DUE DATES IMPACT RETIREMENT PLAN CONTRIBUTION DATES

SUMMARY

Certain tax return and extension due dates will change for taxable years ending on or after December 31, 2016, based on provisions included in the Surface Transportation and Veterans Health Care Choice Improvement Act of 2015 that was signed into law on July 31st, 2015. The changes represent years of lobbying by The American Institute of CPAs to have a more logical flow of tax return due dates, especially to have pass-through entity returns and the resulting Form K-1s due before individual and corporate tax returns affected by the information.

DETAILS

New Due Dates

The main change is that partnership tax returns are due a month earlier, while most C Corporation tax returns are due a month later.

CAUTION: Special Circumstance Apply to Certain C Corporation Returns with a June 30th year end.

Even though these changes will prove to be useful, there are a few oddities that confuse when a Form 1120 for C Corporations are due. In order to balance the bill's impact on tax revenue over a ten year period, C Corporations have a number of due dates to keep track of depending on the year end of the corporation.

BDO INSIGHTS

No plan sponsor who relies on its extended tax return to determine the payment requirement will have an earlier deadline under these new rules. Partnerships that file the Form 1065 without extension will need to pay retirement plan contributions one month earlier than the current rules allow.

Background and Authority

Sponsors of qualified retirement plans rely heavily on a special rule that allows them to deduct contributions made next year on this year's income tax return. The general deduction rule that requires accrual basis taxpayers to pay amounts within 2 1/5 months following the year end in order to deduct on the current year's return, is trumped by IRC 404 that governs all deductions for contributions of an employer to an employees' trust. Specifically, IRC section 404(a)(6) provides the following:

"Time when contributions deemed made. For purposes of paragraphs (1), (2) and (3), a taxpayer shall be deemed to have made a payment on the last day of the preceding taxable year if the payment is on account of such taxable year and is made not later than the time prescribed by law for filing the return for such taxable year (including extensions thereof)."

Therefore, the aforementioned changes to the tax return due dates affect the timing of the employer deductions
